COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The town received a check this week for $65,754.00 from the State of Maine. The check is a partial payment of the subsidy payment made by the state to towns in the state. The check represents about two thirds of the total state subsidy paid to the town. The other one-third is usually received the last week of December.

The reconstruction of Mason Street was started last week and the work is progressing very well. Everything has been excavated to a depth 18" below the finished grade of the road. A minimum of 18" of gravel will be used to bring the final elevation up to grade. About 430 feet of culvert pipe has been put in and three catch basins will be installed to take care of the surface water on the street. The excavation for four manholes has been made and the manholes will be constructed the latter part of the week. If things go as well as they have been going, the crew will start hauling gravel the first of next week. The main objectives in the reconstruction of the street are to widen the street, make the grade more uniform, and remove the large rocks that were under the street. The people who live on Mason Street have all been very patient and cooperative and the street will be finished much faster because of their assistance and cooperation.

About a dozen home owners in Bethel have had dead elm trees cut and the highway crew has hauled the trees away. Several others have indicated an interest in the elm trees and quite a few have indicated interest in a planting program to replace trees that are removed. The Boy Scout Troop is the only organization to offer aid in a planting program.

ALL-SEASON GOLF AND SKI AREA PLANNED FOR STONEHAM AREA

Plans have been completed for the construction in Maine of what promises to be one of the finest and most complete all-year-round recreation and vacation areas in the eastern section of the country. The announcement was made by John H. Flynn, Sales and Promotion Director of Evergreen Valley, Inc., with headquarters in North Lovell.

The planned development will be located in West Stoneham near North Lovell in the area known as Evergreen Valley, that includes Adams Mountain and adjacent territory. It is planned to have the Evergreen Valley project open during the entire year and when completed will offer ski trails on Adams Mountain and an 18-hole golf course in the beautiful valley at the mountain's base.

The ski slopes have been designed by and will be constructed under the direction and supervision of A. Lewis Evans of Lovell, and Seldon Hanna of the Saco-Engineering Corporation, Lacrosse, N. H., widely known for their development of outstanding and successful ski areas in the eastern part of the United States.

Plans for Evergreen Valley call for three ski slopes to start, a novice slope, a beginners' area and intermediate slopes.

The skiing area will include a chair lift and T-Bar lift. The chair lift will extend 4000 feet to the summit of Adams Mountain and in addition to its use in winter by skiers, it will be used in spring, summer and fall seasons to transport guests and visitors to the special picnic and view area at the mountain's summit. Sixty per cent of Evergreen Valley's skiing area will be inside the White Mountain National Forest reserve where the natural beauty and resources are under government protection and supervision. Present plans call for the ski slopes to be in operation in December, 1965.

Evergreen Valley's 18-hole golf course will be one of the finest in the east. It will be designed by an internationally known golf architect who has built and redesigned champion ship courses throughout the United States. Design and layout of the course is now in process and complete plans covering the course will be available and will be published in the very near future. In addition continued on page four

Letters to the Editor

August 10, 1964

To the Editor of The Bethel Citizen:

To our great delight we discovered two beautiful beaches on the town of the Methodist Church on Main Street this afternoon. The thoughtfulness of its clergy and members deserve the gratitude of all of us. My wife and I dedicate this little poem to them. It doesn't seem proper that they should bear the burden of the expense of the church. About ten days ago somebody anonymously sent us an "ad" from a Norway, Maine newspaper containing an offer to sell park benches at $1.00 each reduced from $2.00. The biggest park lot in Norway is selling them. The problem is transporting them to Bethel. If they can be arranged and a place found on the town map for each a bench, we would be happy to contribute one. For large orders we also make one available to the village now that the Methodist Church has had the way who can't we find the job satisfactorily. The poem follows:

Separate poem

In the warm summer sun
and off to summer camp now, we have a sturdy groundwood bench which beautifies and aids the campers.

Station to the village church
beyond the woods and town
we wish.

For a village bench to all the thoughts of prayer to them
we wish.

College campers, students, men,
that the church has made the camp
for them the church has made
for them the church has made
for them.

Let us all come and see the sturdy bench beautified and

Let the sturdy bench be the church as they wander through their minds that some church has made
for them.

It will also be an aid to the church as they wander to find a bench to sit on

The House of Parliament (center block and Peace Tower above) which overlooks the historic Ottawa River, reflects the dignity of Government in stately Gothic architecture. CONGRESSMAN
CLIFFORD G. MCINTIRE
MAINE, SECOND DISTRICT

The curtain is falling fast on the 88th Congress, and, as is usual in the fading hours of a legislative session, strenuous last-minute efforts are being made to enact certain bills before the legislative clock strikes midnight.

One such measure would prevent the United States Supreme Court from ordering—as it did last June 15 — the individual states to set up both houses of their legislatures on a basis of approximately equal population. I have introduced legislation that would lay aside this Supreme Court edict by amending the Constitution to provide that a state could, if so determined by the people, set up one of its legislative houses on a population basis. Both houses could be set up on the basis of population, but only if the people want it that way.

The disturbing thing about the Supreme Court's decision is that it destroys a traditional and historical prerogative which has permitted the people in our individual states to decide for themselves whether or not they wanted one of their legislative houses to be set up population-wise.

A situation concerning the people of Colorado poses an interesting case in point. For instance, before the Supreme Court made its finding, the voters of Colorado had been offered a clear choice between (1) a plan which would have apportioned both houses on a population basis, and (2) one which would take factors other than population into account in the apportionment of one house. The end result was that a majority of the people in every county of Colorado rejected the first plan by a vote of 2 to 1 in the state as a whole. They adopted the second plan by roughly the same margin.

Under the June 15 ruling of the Supreme Court, however, the wishes of the people of Colorado would have to be set aside. This is a very disturbing aspect to me for it would be an abandonment of a privilege of our people honored through our American history.

Although the hour is late in this legislative session, there still remain prospects for the enactment of legislation that will, in some degree or another, modify the Supreme Court's apportionment ruling. I hope that if legislation is enacted, it will be along the lines of my bill which provides for an amendment to the Constitution to permit one house of the state legislature to be set up on the basis of population.

Quoddy and Potatoes. It is now apparent that legislation providing for the establishment of a Passamaquoddy Tidal Power Project will not make any progress this year. This is disappointing to those of us interested in the project. We introduced legislation earlier this year with the understanding that it would afford plenty of time for legislative progress. Now, against the background of technical reports, we are told that the time for consideration of Quoddy legislation is not now—but sometime in the future—when in the future is difficult to say.

I am also unhappy to report that my bill prohibiting futures trading in Irish potatoes has come to a sad end. Even though I succeeded in having the bill reported out of the House Committee on Agriculture by a vote of 23-8, the measure has a "political football" in the House Rules Committee. I am sorry to report that my potato futures bill has apparently fallen victim of the hammer blow of power politics.

COIN SHORTAGE - The American Bankers Association states that the shortage of circulating coin has reached disturbing proportions in most parts of the country, and is expected to worsen. The Treasury is moving rapidly to increase production, but the shortage is expected to persist for several months.

Although banking is not responsible for the current situation, banks inevitably bear the brunt of public criticism. The problem poses serious operating and customer relations difficulties.

Accordingly, the American Bankers Association is preparing an intensive campaign to encourage banker business and public cooperation in reducing the impact of the shortage in the coming months.

The aim of the campaign is to sample substantial numbers of the estimated 40 billion in coins now in existence and are circulating in normal business channels. Our effort will be to get as many as possible into circulation and keep them there until Treasury measures to increase coin production take effect.

To accomplish this consumer action is planned on three fronts.

First, we inform the public of the serious nature of the shortage and persuade them to put back into circulation the full range of coins now being withdrawn from circulation.

Second, we urge retailers and merchants to refuse to accept coins which are not being circulated.

Third, we urge banks to do all within their power to improve customer satisfaction and encourage them to use the widest range of alternative services to facilitate coin circulation.

For Livestock Stunning—LOW SPEED-HIGH IMPACT

Livestock stunners whose job is to round up small, spirited meat animals and—legally required—humanely stupefy them prior to slaughtering are getting an assist from the development laboratory of the Winchester-Western Division, Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation.

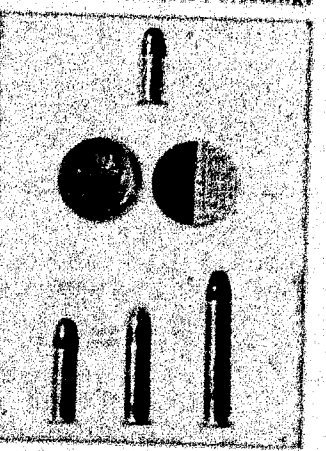

A new, low velocity Num-Rite stunning cartridge is being introduced that helps dispatchers do their job safely and economically—at 132 cents per head. Unlike some other stunning cartridges, the new 22 Short can be used from a standstill position. It will not ricochet and is effective despite having one of the lowest velocities available. W. R. Kelly, Jr., division vice president for marketing said:

"The new, low velocity 22 Short makes our Num-Rite line of cartridges the industry's most complete. Stunners throughout the nation's meat packing houses and those of law enforcement and humane agencies now have the proper cartridge to knock out any size animal from small pigs to big rugged range bulls from rabbit dogs to disabled Clydesdale horses."

Like other Num-Rite stunning cartridges, the new 22 Short can be used in any handgun or rifle chambered for a 22 Long rifle cartridge. It has a low velocity of less than 1,500 feet per second. The stunning-cartridge market is estimated to be around $5,000,000 a year. Livestock-packing houses process more than 120,000,000

U.S.-bred meat animals annually. In addition, American humane societies and law-enforcement agencies dispatch an estimated 6,000,000 animals annually.

Stunning is the Government-approved method for rendering livestock insensible to pain prior to slaughtering. The law requires that an animal remain in a state of insensibility throughout shackling, sticking and bleeding, and that death from any cause shall not be produced in the animal before bleeding.

ONLY COMPLETE LINE FOR LIVESTOCK STUNNERS: The new, low velocity 22 Short cartridge for small animals—at 132 cents per stunning—(top) makes Olin's Num-Rite livestock-stunning cartridges the only complete line available to the meat industry. Others, left to right, are: for cattle, medium weights and extra-heavy animals.

The Lobster Supper of West Bethel Union Church was served at Pleasant Valley Grange Hall due to inclement weather Saturday night. A very good crowd was in attendance considering the heavy rain during the day and evening. The committee would like to extend a thank you to all who helped make it a success.
